Mr. Hutchinson said:

"I first met this 'stomach man' in Boston some months ago. He accomplished more for me than I had ever believed possible. He actually restored my health. For the last twenty years I have suffered with nervous dyspepsia. It has been so bad that it forced me to quit my business interests entirely for long periods of time.

"One day in Boston on my way down town I read this man Cooper's statement about what his medicines would do for stomach trouble. There was also an account of a man who said he had been relieved by the medicine after ten years' chronic dyspepsia. I was feeling wretched that morning and I decided it wouldn't hurt me to try the medicine at least, so I went to the store, saw the 'stomach man' and got some of his preparation.

They have been unable to help me in the least, and I no more believed this Cooper medicine could help me than that it could bring a dead man back to life. I really don't know why I bought it. It was like a drowning man cluthching at a straw.

When seen at Smith's "Busy Corner" drug store, Main and Second South streets, the Cooper "stomach man" said: "I think I remember Mr. Hutchinson. He was one of the most skeptical men who called on me during my visit to Boston. He told me it would be worth thousands of dolfars to me if my medicine helped him. I am very glad he is so enthusiastic. "Owing to the fact that a number of persons have telephoned me that they could not call during my daily office. could not call during my daily office hours at this store, from 19 in the morning to 6 at night.
